

Lt. Gen. N K Sahoo, PVSM, VSM, PHDS (Retd)

Lieutenant General Nanda Kishore Sahoo, PVSM, VSM, PHDS is an alumnus of King George's Medical University and a Post Graduate from Mumbai University in the Specialty of Oral & Maxillofacial Surgery. During his distinguished military career of 38 years, he has held multiple important appointments including Director General of Dental Services and Colonel Commandant of Army Dental Corps.

Along with a long and illustrious career in service to the country, Lt. Gen. Sahoo has over 140 publications to boast with numerous and highly cited national and international papers. He also serves in the editorial and review boards of various reputed scientific publications. He is also an advisor to the UPSC, Member of Bureau of Indian Standards and Examiner for NBE/NEET. He has been an integral part to several AFMRC projects and takes special interest in training and teaching of students and young surgeons all over the country.

His areas of keen interest include Orthognathic surgery with emphasis on sleep medicine and obstructive sleep apnea, distraction osteogenesis for reconstruction of maxillofacial defects, craniofacial trauma, amongst other disciplines of oral and maxillofacial surgery.

He has received 5 commendations during his service, Presidential awards Param Vishisht Seva Medal and Vishisht Seva Medal. He also is a recipient of the coveted M.S. Ginwallah Trophy from the Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons of India in 2009 and Lifetime Achievement Award from AOMSI.